

Secondary Education Health & Physical Education

If you are someone who enjoys health, physical fitness, and teaching? This degree may be for you.

Secondary Education Health & Physical Education allows you to teach in the K-12 school setting. You will have the knowledge about sports, physical development, health, and proper nutrition. You will be able to show students how physical activity benefits the muscles and overall health.

Skills and Competencies

Students with a major or minor in secondary physical education must maintain a grade point average of 3.0 or greater overall, in the major, and/or minor with no grade below a "B-" in the professional education sequence and no grade below a "C" in the major and/or minor.

Completion of this major, a teachable minor and the professional education sequence leads to secondary certification which enables teaching in the K-12 school setting.

Career Development

You should begin the resume-building process as soon as you can. The Academic and Career Advisement Center can assist you with career planning, while Career Services will help you fine tune your resume and look for jobs related to your field. In the meantime, the more hands-on experience you have, the better the chances are that you will find a job. Becoming involved in a professional related internship is a way to develop your professional skills and gain experience. Your academic course work is important as well, so be sure to maintain a high grade point average.

Additional Considerations

High school teachers typically have at least a bachelor's degree. In addition, public school teachers must have a state-issued certification or license, which may require an academic background in the subject(s) they will be certified to teach.

Job Outlook

Employment of high school teachers is projected to grow 4 percent from 2018 to 2028, about as fast as the average for all occupations. Rising student enrollment should increase demand for high school teachers.

The median annual wage for high school teachers was $61,660 in May 2019.

Potential Careers

NMU's Secondary Education Health & Physical Education Program prepares students for employment in the following careers:

Elementary Teacher
