

Spanish

Exciting and enriching opportunities are available at NMU for students of Spanish. Students can travel to numerous countries for studies abroad. NMU Spanish professors have recently taken groups of NMU students to Cuba, Mexico and Spain. We send many students to other countries as well, among them Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, and Peru. Students can earn many credits toward their degrees in this way.

Spanish courses fulfill a number of General Education requirements.

Students earn a Spanish major with 32 credits beyond SN202. Most of our majors earn a second major as well. The Spanish minor requires 20 credits beyond SN 202.

Spanish is one of the most spoken languages in the world and is second only to English in the United States. Many opportunities open for people who are bilingual in Spanish and English, both in the US and abroad.

Skills and Competencies

A language degree emphasizes communication, critical thinking, reading, and writing. It therefore gives you the opportunity to master many skills and competencies. Writing skills—necessary in any career field today—are developed and fine-tuned, as are your critical thinking and research skills. Reading skills are developed to help you not only analyze texts and interpret material, but also to identify various word patterns and structures. And unlike most other degrees, a language degree gives you the opportunity to learn about international culture—customs, gestures, attitudes, politics, history, world views, and artistic contributions of people from around the world.

Course Work

This degree includes the following courses as part of the program requirements, and specific major requirements along with general education and graduation requirements.

Core

SN301	Advanced Spanish I (4 cr.)
SN302	Advanced Spanish II (4 cr.)
SN315	Intro to Literacy Study in Spanish (4 cr.)
	Spanish Electives 300 or 400 level (20 cr.)
LG499	Grad Assessment for Language Majors

No Minor needed, but highly recommended (20 cr.)

Detailed course descriptions can be found at www.nmu.edu/bulletin.

Career Development

You should begin the resume-building process as soon as you can. The Academic and Career Advisement Center can assist you with career planning, while Career Services will help you fine tune your resume and look for jobs related to your field. In the meantime, the more hands-on experience you have, the better for future employment. Becoming involved in a professional related internship is a way to develop your professional skills and gain experience. Your academic course work is important as well, so be sure to maintain a high grade point average.

Additional Considerations

Many other majors and minors work well with Spanish to open doors for graduates. More and more opportunities for international internships are becoming available, and they are very desirable for future careers.

We encourage our students to study abroad, to develop strong writing and thinking skills, and to become versed in computer skills as well.

Many graduate programs require language competency beyond English, and Spanish is a good major from which to pursue graduate studies.

Job Outlook

Jobs in need of skills and competencies that are acquired while studying Spanish are varied both in terms of specialty and salary. Examples of potential careers are listed on this brochure.
