

Criminal Justice

Majoring in Criminal Justice isn't like every other major. Just ask Northern's Criminal Justice students. They'll tell you about Northern's approach to education, the small class size with lots of personal attention, the talented faculty, the use of technology in the classroom, the internships, the diverse number of career opportunities, the high job placement rate, the regional police academy, and the Criminal Justice Association. The criminal justice major is designed to ensure your future success.

Northern offers a wide variety of criminal justice courses. You can explore such topics as corrections, the judicial system, investigations, law enforcement, legal issues, criminology, and drug enforcement just to name a few. Many courses are offered via the web.

Skills and Competencies

Like other degrees, you will be exposed to a variety of academic coursework as a Criminal Justice major. In the process, you will acquire new skills. Specifically, you communication, analytical, and technical skills will be challenged and strengthened. Strong communication skills are, after all, necessary in every career field today; Criminal Justice is no exception. You will need to develop effective writing skills, as well as oral presentation, and persuasiveness. Leadership and public relation skills are important to possess. The ability to think critically, solve problems, and negotiate are also important in this field. You can expect to be exposed to academic course work and experiences that challenge and develop these skills. The curriculum at NMU prepares students for the broad professional fields of law enforcement, adult and juvenile corrections, the court systems, or graduate studies.

Career Development

The resume-building process should begin as soon as possible. The Academic and Career Advisement Center can assist you with career planning, while Career Services will help you fine tune your resume and look for jobs related to your field. In the meantime, the more hands-on experience you have, the better the chances are that you will find a job. Becoming involved in a professional related internship and the NMU Chapter of the Public Relations Student Society of America is a way to develop your professional skills and gain experience. Your academic course work is important as well, so be sure to maintain a high grade point average.

Additional Considerations

Most of these occupations require special training after the BA or BS degree is obtained for promotions. Good communication, human relations, and organization skills are beneficial to these occupations. These careers carry great benefits as well as opportunities for rewarding experiences.

Job Outlook

Increased homeland security has led to the creation of many new jobs in the criminal justice field especially at the federal level. Some fields will have up to a 29% increase in new positions. Starting salaries are contingent upon the agency's geographic location and the individuals applicants work experience, and initiative.
