

International Studies

Do you have an avid interest in travel and learning about different cultures? Do you enjoy speaking a foreign language and working in a variety of settings? If so, then the International Studies major may be the one for you.

NMU's International Studies major includes courses from numerous departments. This major gives you a broad view of the world with an emphasis on developing regions. The core ensures that students have broad exposure to major international issues, and then concentrations allow students to specialize in a world region. The role of someone with an International Studies major is quite varied. It will prepare students to hold any number of positions that require speaking many different languages and traveling to foreign countries.

Skills and Competencies

A person interested in this major should be self-motivated, like people and languages, have a good business sense and be willing to work flexible hours and enjoy entertaining foreign clients. The curriculum is designed to give students a broad view of the world and constant change. You can expect course-work that will develop your knowledge of different countries, their customs, their languages and how they function. The ability to relate to people from a wide variety of backgrounds is a must in this field. A degree in International Studies will provide you with a sound foundation of knowledge about many different countries and how they operate.

Career Development

You should begin the resume-building process as soon as you can. The Academic and Career Advisement Center can assist you with career planning, while Career Services will help you fine tune your resume and look for jobs related to your field. In the meantime, the more hands-on experience you have, the better you prepare for employment. Becoming involved in a professional related internship is a way to develop your professional skills and gain experience. Your academic course work is important as well, so be sure to maintain a high grade point average.

Additional Considerations

Students are encouraged to become familiar with world geography, keep up with current events from around the world, keep apprised of international issues and figures, and take advantage of internationally-related opportunities on campus and beyond.

Your possibilities should only be limited by your preferences of where you work. The more you enjoy being on the move, the better your job potential.

Job Outlook

Starting salaries are contingent upon geographic location and individual work experience. The job market should expand at an excellent rate, as the world continues to have global dependency on foreign markets and international trade becomes the norm.
