  - i) Dana: "Farmers Market update really quick. I sent out that email and there is a sign up sheet towards the bottom of the document for volunteering. If you could fill your name into one of the time slots that would be super helpful. I also sent out an email to all the NMU students on campus about ASNMU projects and then included a little bit about the application process for ASNMU as well. So, hopefully we will get more people appointed in the next two weeks or so. Also, please look out for that email from Kit about headshots so she can get them scheduled with marketing for everyone."
- e) Vice President
  - i) Ruby: "I know tonight we are focusing on Farmers Market since the event is tomorrow but I wanted to touch base on a couple of things. I do have the names of everyone interested in the Career Closet and Period Project. I don't want you all to think I forgot about that, it is just not our main priority tonight. I will also be looking at doing some interviews soon, both for new and existing members so we can get more appointments and find everyone a place, including the new people."

k) Members with Discussion

- i) Period Products - Dana Hinckley
  - (1) Dana: "I restocked the period products in the bathrooms last week. When I checked today they were completely gone. I didn't check every single bathroom but the ones I did check had very little, if any, left. I am thinking that students are taking these to use at a later date, rather than on an emergency basis. So, I was thinking that changing the poster would be a good start in reminding students that we have a limited stock and that these are for emergencies. I also wanted to mention the idea of donating some period products to the food pantry and trying to promote the food pantry more. I think a lot of students would benefit from this and it should be something we look into."

Public Comment

- a) None.

Good Of the Order

- a) Kelly: "I have been in contact with a few people. First being Rachel Harris. And for clarification, over the summer NMU changed distributors for the vending machines. So now, for the vending machines we are needing to get re-approved. I counted the Plan-B that we have and there are 81. They also meet the requirements for the vending machines. As soon as I get confirmation from the vendors, they will be going into the vending machines. So that is something we have in the process as well."
- b) Jack: "I wanted to give a couple ideas of some events we could do. I think it would be really fun to do an ice cream social again like we did last year. I also think it would be a good idea to do more ice skating events as those were a big hit last year. I was also hoping that in October or November we could do some sort of collaboration with Northern Votes to do some sort of voting event."
- c) Ivy: "That does remind me, I would really like to do something for students for Halloween. I know that trunk-or-treat was a thing in the past, but I think if we could find some way to facilitate trick-or-treating in the dorms it could be a really fun thing for students."
- d) Dana: "Another thing I would like to bring up is that Starbucks is not open on the weekends even though Jamrich is. Students are getting frustrated with the closing of campus businesses."
  - i) Discussion commences on the issues arising within campus jobs for students and ways it can be mediated.

- ii) Conclusion is made to get in contact with Human Resources to discuss a meeting where we can advocate for the issues that students are seeing within their workplace, wages, and other staffing issues.
