A POEM TO OUR Earth

A 2016 study in Environment International found that long-term exposure to the pollutant is associated with racial segregation, with more highly segregated areas suffering higher levels of exposure.

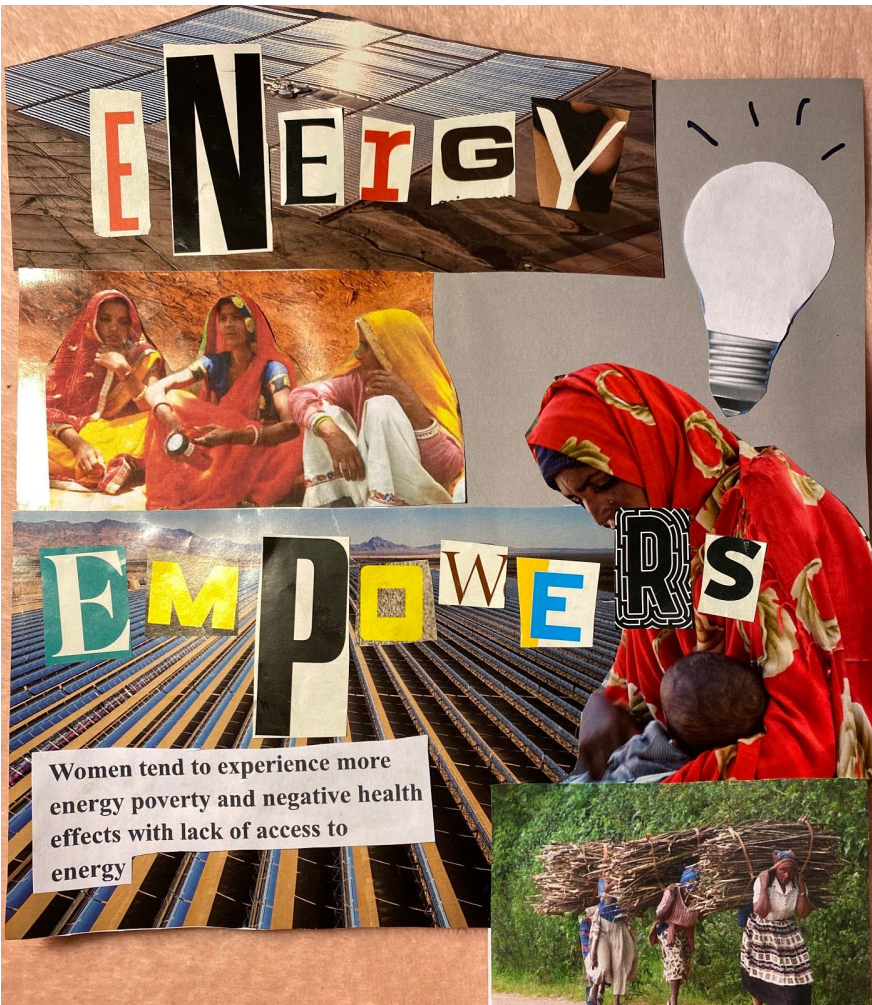

Black people are exposed to about 1.5 times more particulate matter than white people, and that Hispanics had about 1.2 times the exposure of non-Hispanic whites

"One study found that men could be disinclined to carry a reusable shopping bag for fear of being perceived as gay"

"Men may be motivated to avoid or even oppose green behaviours in order to safeguard their gender identity"

EMPOWERS

Women tend to experience more energy poverty and negative health effects with lack of access to energy

*Broken Bottles and charred pieces
