

Results Summary for SAM

- 36% (n=433) of First-Time Full-Time students who started in Fall 2014 successfully received a degree (bachelor, or associate, or certificate) either from Northern Michigan University or another institution within 4 years;
- 53% (n=619) of this 2014 cohort received a degree from NMU within 6 years;
- But if we track student movement across postsecondary institutions, 66% (n=772) of them earned a degree or certificate within 6 years, either from NMU or another institution.
- Only 3% (n=36) of this 2014 cohort were still enrolled at NMU after 6 years from 2014.
- 77% (n=271) of Full-Time Transfer students who started in Fall 2014 received a degree within 6 years either from NMU or another institution.
- For the Fall 2010 Part-Time cohort, 37% (n=10) of them received a degree within 6 years either from NMU or another institution.

Notes:

Fall 2014 cohort includes 1172 First-Time Full-Time students and 356 Full-Time Transfer students;

Fall 2010 cohort includes 11 First-Time Part-Time students and 17 Part-Time Transfer students.

National Student Clearinghouse does not have records for every student, so SAM reports excluded students with unknown status.

The Student Achievement Measure is supported by six sponsoring associations, working together to provide a more comprehensive and accurate picture of student progress and completion as students move across institutions and state boundaries.

Northern Michigan University

Northern is the institution of choice in the Midwest for students seeking quality academic programs with individualized attention in a high-tech learning environment. Located in Michigan's spectacular Upper Peninsula, Northern is a dynamic public university offering 180 degree programs to more than 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students. NMU is one of three Michigan public universities to also serve a community college role for its region, which means the breadth of NMU's academic programs range from one-year diplomas through master's degrees. NMU is applying to offer its first doctoral program – the Doctor of Nursing Practice – in fall 2014. NMU's most popular bachelor's degrees are Health Professions and related programs, Business, Management, Marketing, and related support services; Visual and Performing Arts; Biological and Biomedical Sciences; and Education. Every Northern student gets a ThinkPad or MacBook Pro notebook computer as part of tuition and fees. Students learn to live a life that matters in NMU's unique Superior Edge service leadership program that focuses on citizenship, diversity awareness, leadership and real-world experience.
