    - The NMU Bike Share program seems to be a lost cause, unfortunately. The bikes were bought for $225 and repair costs would be $75 each, not including tire costs. Also snow will be starting soon, so I don't believe it will be coming back.
- VI. Advisor Report
  - a. Jeff Korpi*- Faculty Advisor
    - No faculty advisor report
- VII. New Business
  - a. Economics Student Association
    - Charlie Dill (President of ESA): We plan on holding an event on Wednesday, October 26th from 6p-8p in Jamrich 1322, called Curing Inflation. We plan on showing a documentary starring Milton Freeman, a Nobel Prize winner and economist, and then hosting a Q&A with an economist on inflation. Our goal is to inform students about inflation, which is at about 8% and rising right now. I think it's good for people to understand what it is and how it can affect the economy. We have been talking with the economics department and are expecting around 100-120 attendees. To bring in Dr. Cutsinger, we will need to pay him $500, which is a very discounted rate. We also want to print posters, which will cost about $60.
    - Eli: The budget I sent out is for $600?
      - Charlie: There's an additional $40 cost for the design fee, I forgot about that! So it would be $600 total.
    - Hunter: Do you have the rights to show the documentary in a public setting?
      - Charlie: It's on YouTube, so I believe it's public domain.

- Hunter: I would check who owns the rights to it and see if they're charging anything.
- Charlie: I will definitely look into that! I'll keep you guys in the loop.
- Kobie: On top of posters, I would say that you should talk in front of a couple of classes as well to promote the event.
  - Charlie: We would like to table in Jamrich prior to the event to pique interest and inform people about the event.
- Eli: ESA has done previous events like this one?
  - Charlie: I'm not sure of specifics, but they have hosted documentary showings and Q&A sessions in the past, but I don't have any of the numbers for those events.
- SFC Deliberation
  - Hunter* motioned to approve Economics Student Association's budget in full for $600
